Paradigm and the Society of Biblical Literature enter partnership

Wider distribution for scholarship on biblical studies and archaeology

Boston/London/Warsaw – 2 March 2026 – Paradigm Publishing Services, a division of De Gruyter Brill, will collaborate with the Society of Biblical Literature \(SBL\) to increase the visibility and distribution of the books the society publishes. The collaboration provides greater visibility and access for SBL Press titles among librarians and scholars around the world.

SBL is a membership organization with more than 7,000 scholars. Founded in 1880, it is the oldest and largest learned society devoted to the critical investigation of the Bible from a variety of academic disciplines. Through its work as an international organization, SBL supports scholarly research and fosters the public understanding of the Bible and its influence.

SBL Press – the society’s publishing arm – publishes books and journals by preeminent scholars whose essential research, diverse interpretations, and innovative methods have engaged and inspired scholars, students, and wider audiences interested in biblical studies and the ancient world.

Notable authors include, among many others, William G. Dever, Israel Finkelstein, Michael Fox, Tat-siong Benny Liew, Joseph Marchal, Daniel O. McClellan, Carol Newsom, Judith H. Newman, Christopher Rollston, and Shively T. J. Smith.

Well-known titles include Martha T. Roth’s Law Collections from Mesopotamia and Asia Minor, David G. Rice and John E. Stambaugh’s Sources for the Study of Greek Religion, and the SBL Handbook of Style.

“We are looking forward to expanding both awareness of and access to the scholarly works we publish by collaborating with Paradigm,” said Bob Buller, the Director of SBL Press.

“Our partnership with SBL adds value to our University Press Library offering and complements it with unique scholarship and literature,” said Emily Poznanski, Executive Vice President of Product and Publisher Relations at Paradigm Publishing Services.
